

My family and I have been listening to K-LOVE for about a year now and absolutely love the station. I have 4 children under the age of 6 and find any tool extremely helpful and raising my children the way I think they should be brought up. Even though we have a local christian radion station to listen to, I don't enjoy it as much and neither does my family. If you were to put K-Love on LPFM broadcast, you would really be putting my family out of sorts with one less (very important) option. I have been a supporter of K-Love monetarily and don't mind continuing my support. I think that K-love provides a wonderful option to people who like to listen to encouraging music instead of mainstream secular counterparts. Not only is the music encouraging but the many other services K-Love provides is great for people who need help IE: an 800 prayer line, helpful segments on raising children, relationships etc.

Thank you for your consideration.
